

Goodbye Romans

Under Roman rule, Britain grew to be a great and civilised country. The Romans built roads, towns and amazing buildings. The Romans that were here stopped other people from taking over and invading.

By 410 AD, the Roman empire was massive and difficult to keep control over. Most Romans had gone back to Rome to defend it against attacks from invaders or to defend other parts.

Goodbye Romans

After the Romans left, life in Britain became rather disorganised.

Take a look at the map to see how big the Roman Empire was at its biggest!

Use the atlases to help you identify some countries.

Goodbye Romans

The Romans leaving Britain meant Britain was left to its own devices for the first time in about 400 years of protection under Roman rule, the British were quite unprepared for fighting! Britain itself had people trying to invade it, but no longer was it being protected by the Romans.

In your book write the date and LO.

Shade your map to show how big the Roman Empire got. To do this you will need to use your observation skills from the maps on your table.

Underneath, complete these sentences

The Romans left Britain in.....

They left because